

Project Management

Our team primarily used Discord to manage everything. We utilized the text channels to do task delegations as well as major discussions. Discord also has voice channels so any time text conversations got arduous we would congregate in a voice channel. We liked this approach as we were able to reference material and tasks easily. Additionally, having the people's page open helped see who was online to ask pertinent questions.

